

Biography

Kevin Bloch
Chief Technology Officer (CTO)

Kevin Bloch is Chief Technology Officer at Cisco. As CTO, he provides leadership of technology vision and leadership of people within Cisco to communicate and execute on that vision.

Kevin joined Cisco 8 years ago. Previously, he held positions with other telecommunications equipment manufacturers as well as with Telstra. He has held several roles in the telecommunications industry including management, strategic planning, marketing, sales, systems engineering and technology development. His expertise covers the fields of architecture, internet technologies, narrowband and broadband access, transmission and switching.

Kevin holds a B.Sc (Computer Science) and a B.E. (Engineering Hons) from the University of New South Wales and is the author of several notable publications and technical reference books.
