

Is Your Business Ready to Grow?

You need a solution designed to grow at the pace of your business. But how do you know when the technology powering it is doing more harm than good? Use this checklist.

Is your business currently using multiple technology vendors to serve your business needs?

Managing multiple vendors can be a nightmare for most mid-sized businesses. Staying on top of licenses, expirations and multiple Terms of Service can waste valuable time and resources your business doesn't have. You need a packaged solution that can meet all your business needs, delivering simplicity and a single point of contact.

Have you outgrown your current system?

Is your current IT solution running out of licenses or dropping customer calls? Is it struggling to provision new users and keep up with the pace of hiring? You need a technology solution that can scale to your growth, not the other way around.

Are you struggling to support a remote workforce?

Times are changing and employees often work remotely. If your employees haven't asked to work remote yet, they will. And when they do, is your technology equipped to keep them connected and secure while at home or on the road? You need a solution that can ensure calls are connected to the right person, every time, so you never miss a customer call.

Is your current IT solution unable to handle BYOD in the office?

Mobile devices are becoming the norm in the workplace, and if your business is unable to manage employee device usage...that's a serious problem. You need a solution that can enable employees to use their own devices while providing the security to keep all of your data where it should be.
