

Gina Tritschler-Kirnberger

“Can-Do” HR Manager for Germany

Described As:

Optimistic. Perfectionist. Intuitive.

Successful At:

Growing Cisco Germany from 6 to nearly 1,000 employees within 8 years, managing one of the top recruitment teams in Europe.

Took A Risk By:

Moving to Germany from the U.S. and starting her own company, despite not being able to speak German. (Later, she “won” Cisco as a customer.)

Benefits Of Living In Germany:

She appreciates that everyone is organized and punctual, and enjoys the multi-cultural aspects of Frankfurt, as well as its proximity to so many great travel destinations.

Little-Known Fact:

She battled Stage 2/3 cancer (Hodgkin’s Disease), and underwent chemotherapy and radiation treatment from 1987 to 1989. During this time, she never doubted that she would survive and recover.

Philosophy Of Life:

Live life to its fullest, and learn as much as possible. Believe. Because when you put your mind to doing something, you can do it.

Can’t Live Without:

Our freedom; the ability to make our own choices and decisions.

Looks Forward To:

Being a mother again (this time, of twins). One day, she wants to own a vineyard in Tuscany, where she can make her own wine and pasta, and entertain friends and family.
