

Joao Santos

Diplomatic, Enthusiastic Relationship Manager

Described As:

A leader. Good at communication and motivating people. Always trying to do something at work that's meaningful.

What He Likes About His Job:

Working with teams from other cultures and regions. Daily contact with customers and peers from all over the globe. Touching several completely-different business units across Cisco.

Co-Workers Would Be Surprised To Know:

He jumped off the world's tallest bungee jumping platform, 230 metres high, in Macau, China. It was a major adrenaline rush for him, and he felt so fulfilled and ecstatic afterwards, he wanted to do it again.

Favorite Activities:

Travelling (most recently to Indochina and Senegal), going to the cinema, playing football, taking photographs, and spending time with friends and family.

Philosophy Of Life:

Have fun. Cherish your freedom. Use your passion and energy to inspire others, make things happen, and live life to the fullest.

His Dream Job:

A Hollywood movie producer.

Last Great Movie He Saw:

"Vicky Christina Barcelona." It was filmed in Barcelona, where he used to live, and is an entertaining story with funny romantic complications. (His all-time favorite movie is "Pulp Fiction.")

Can't Live Without:

Sun. And the beach. He loves Lisbon because of its amazing beaches, only 10 minutes away across the bridge.
