

Tony Court

Director and Lead, Energy Practice Internet Business Solutions Group

Tony Court is a director of the Cisco Internet Business Solutions Group (IBSG) Energy Practice. In his role, Court is responsible for engaging with major oil companies across the globe and leading major projects.

He brings more than 20 years of experience in the energy industry, focusing on exploration, production, pipelines, refining, and petrochemicals. His experience also includes business processes such as asset management, operations, maintenance, logistics, and capital investment. Working across all levels of an organization, Court has been involved in transformation programs, both offshore and onshore, focused on identifying and delivering improvements to production and cost performance. More recently, he worked with international joint ventures in helping them optimize business performance.

Prior to joining Cisco, Court was a partner with London-based Arthur D. Little, where he worked for clients across the international oil/gas industry. He has completed engagements for independent and national oil companies, and the supplier community, and focused on all areas of organizational performance improvement, including business process reengineering, organizational redesign, and leadership development. His international experience spans the U.K. and Norwegian offshore sectors, the Middle East, and the Americas.

Prior to his consulting work, Court held a number of line management roles at Shell in both the downstream oil refining and petrochemical sectors. A mechanical engineer by training, Court holds an MBA from Warwick Business School.
