

Brian Suckow

Director, Innovations Practice Internet Business Solutions Group

Brian Suckow is a director in the innovations practice for the Cisco Internet Business Solutions Group (IBSG). In this capacity, he focuses on helping Cisco's top customers adopt innovative solutions to improve collaboration and to address operational and strategic opportunities in the emerging Green space.

Prior to Cisco, Suckow served as a management consultant in the strategy and eCommerce practices at McKinsey and Cap Gemini Ernst & Young. Suckow has also held marketing, business development, and strategy development positions at Sun Microsystems, Applied Materials, and several Silicon Valley start-ups. He began his career as an R&D engineer at ARCO, developing new products and manufacturing processes.

Outside of the corporate sector, Suckow had conducted pro bono management consulting engagements for nonprofit social services and education organizations through the Stanford Alumni Consulting Team. He has also served as an intern in the office of management and budget (OMB) within the executive office of the president.

Suckow has bachelor's and master's degrees in chemical engineering from the University of Pennsylvania and an MBA from Stanford, where he graduated as an Arjay Miller Scholar.

Cisco Internet Business Solutions Group (IBSG)