

6 ways to be a global problem solver for women

We can all be global problem solvers, but we're most effective when the revolution is inclusive. Here's how you can create opportunities for women in today's digital economy.

Empower an entrepreneur

Small loans through organizations like Opportunity International and Kiva can empower female entrepreneurs to create a better future for themselves, their communities, and the world.

1

Encourage and embrace your peers

Connect with other women in tech, discover new opportunities, or meet career goals through the Anita Borg Institute. Visit ABI.Local to find an event near you.

3

Volunteer and vault women to success

Organizations like We Teach Science and Citizen Schools understand that today's young women are tomorrow's global problem solvers. An hour or two of volunteering each week will help prepare them for future success.

5

6

Say yes to networking

Did you know 20% of Cisco Networking Academy students worldwide are women? Join them by enrolling in courses that cover today's hottest technology trends like the Internet of Things and cybersecurity.

Innovate as a technologist. Think as an entrepreneur. Act as a social change agent. Are you ready to become a global problem solver for women?