

Marc Girardot

Director, Global Automotive Practice
Internet Business Solutions Group

Marc Girardot is managing director of the Global Automotive Practice in the Cisco Internet Business Solutions Group (IBSG). As a core team member of IBSG's Manufacturing senior staff, he provides strategic assistance to car manufacturers and to related organizations looking to capitalize on the transformative power of the Internet. Girardot consults with senior executives from the auto industry and coordinates Cisco's global efforts to accelerate the adoption of enabling technologies to transform the industry.

Girardot has more than 15 years of industry and consulting experience working for leading corporations across the globe. Before coming to Cisco, he was senior associate for Booz Allen Hamilton's Communications Media and Technology Group. He also has extensive experience in the oil and gas industry, where he consulted for British Petroleum, Exxon, and Elf. Prior to his consulting years, Girardot held a variety of management positions in sales, management accounting, auditing, and strategy for industrial gas leader Air Liquide.

Girardot holds an MBA from INSEAD, France, and a master's degree in economics from ESSEC, France.
