4. Special Terms

- 4.1 Competitive Testing. You will not publish or disclose to any third party any Cisco Offer performance information or analysis (e.g., the results of benchmark or competitive testing) except with Cisco’s advance written permission.
- 4.2 Cisco Offer APIs and Apps. Cisco Offer APIs and Apps are licensed to You to use and make calls to the Cisco Offer APIs and Apps for the sole purpose of developing and implementing software applications that work, communicate, or interact with Your licensed Cisco Offers. You agree not to assert any of Your intellectual property developed with use of and/or used with the Cisco Offer APIs or Apps against Cisco or any of its affiliates, customers, resellers, distributors, or other licensees of the Cisco Offer APIs and Apps for making, having made, using, selling, offering for sale, or importing: (i) any products or services implementing, interfacing with or operating in combination with the Cisco Offer APIs or Apps; or (ii) any applications developed using the Cisco Offer APIs or Apps. If You do not agree with the foregoing terms for Cisco Offer APIs and Apps, do not use such functionality.
- 4.3 Cisco Secure Workload Multi-Tenant Support. The Cisco Offer provides support for multiple subgroups on a single platform. Unless Your PID description provides otherwise, the Cisco Offer is licensed for use with only a single customer.
- 4.4 Smart Licensing. Cisco Smart Licensing is now mandatory for use of the Cisco Offer. Each product license will be subject to and conditioned upon You enabling and maintaining Smart Licensing for the Cisco Offer. Cisco Smart Licensing is described in the Cisco Smart Software Licensing Agreement.

4.5 Definitions

Term	Meaning
Endpoint(s)	An inventory of users and devices received from an AnyConnect client with a network visibility module and/or ISE client running on a computer/desktop, smartphone, or any other device.
Workload(s)	A server, virtual machine, container node, desktop/virtual desktop, or other server equivalent. The number of workloads is based on “workload equivalents,” depending on the source of telemetry data (agent or connector) as provided in the Cisco Offer documentation.
