GENERAL INFORMATION

The Government entities (federal, state and local) may utilize a credit card program that allows government agencies an opportunity to enter into agreements for credit cards that will enable the purchase of goods and services by their employees. In many cases, the credit card is centrally billed. This means that the charge is billed directly to the government entity and paid directly by them. A centrally billed credit card purchase is not subject to North Dakota sales tax. However, a situation where the government credit card is used for travel purposes may result in the charge being centrally billed or individually billed. An individually billed charge is billed to and paid by the government employee, and then reimbursed by the government entity. An individually billed charge is not exempt from North Dakota sales tax.

In the event the government employee is not sure of the billing type, centrally billed or individually billed, the employee should contact their agency for clarification before declaring this purchase or service to be exempt from tax. The Federal Government has, in some instances, made available information that enables the employee to determine the billing type; i.e., GSA SmartPay Program - “internet address” <http://www.smartpay.gsa.gov/businesses-vendors/tax-information/overview>.

School employees may make purchases and use multiple forms of payment. A school may issue a check directly to the vendor or have the charges billed to the school. Charges paid by the school employee and reimbursed by the school are taxable even though the charges are incurred for school purposes.
