

Moving to the Health and Social Care Network (HSCN) can feel a bit overwhelming. After all, you're not just delivering a platform for integrated health and care services. You're looking at collaborating effectively. Delivering operational excellence and optimum service. And sharing information securely.

We're talking robust network capabilities.

And to help you get there, we've broken HSCN migration down into six easy steps:

1 DIAGNOSE YOUR LOCAL REQUIREMENTS

- 2 THINK ABOUT THE TECH
- 3 FOCUS ON THE THREE KEY CAPABILITIES
- 4 GATHER EXPERT OPINIONS
- 5 START YOUR OPERATION
- 6 YOU'RE ALL DONE AND GOOD TO GO

1

Start by understanding the business requirements for local health and social care delivery, in particular your local STP* or ACS**. And consider what information you'll need to share – and who you'll share it with.

If you need our help to start mapping your network, get in touch. We understand the pressures facing health and care organisations during this transition, and can help you get to where you need to be.

Connectivity: Think about the functionality you'll need to deliver NHS initiatives like 'Paperless 2020', Five Year Forward View, STPs, and Local Digital Roadmaps.

Collaboration: Consider how you can make collaboration between health and care organisations easy.

Interoperability: You'll need to integrate new services, collaborate better and share information securely. And you'll need to do all this reliably.

Our experience will come in handy here, as we've already helped lots of organisations seamlessly deliver new services.
