- Firms must address the vulnerabilities and limitations of piecemeal security solutions. According to the Midyear Cybersecurity Report, 57% of firms use security solutions from six or more vendors. What happens when you piece together six security solutions? Integration doesn't live up to expectations.
- At Cisco, security is fully embedded into and across the extended network – from the data center to the branch and everything in between. Detect suspicious traffic flows, policy violations, and compromised devices with full visibility into your data center and cloud environments. With the right foundation and tools, firms can reduce overall risk, maintain regulatory compliance, and achieve operational efficiency.
- As a result, firms can confidently deploy innovative experiences that meet and exceed the expectations of today's customers.
