“The cause of the stock market crash of 1987 was primarily program trading, used by institutions to protect themselves from significant market weakness. Some secondary factors included excessive valuations, illiquid markets and market psychology.

DEFINITION of 'Program Trading'

Computerized trading used primarily by institutional investors typically for large-volume trades. Orders from the trader's computer are entered directly into the market's computer system and executed automatically.”

An aerial night view of a city with glowing lights and a network overlay. The background is a dark, high-angle photograph of a city at night, with numerous lights from buildings and streets. Overlaid on this is a complex network of glowing yellow and orange lines, resembling a fiber optic or data network map. The lines are dense and interconnected, forming a web-like pattern across the city's layout. The overall aesthetic is futuristic and technological.

A man in a blue shirt is sitting at a wooden desk outdoors, working on a laptop. The desk is cluttered with various items: a white tablet, a red pencil, a pair of white earbuds, a black pencil case with several colored pencils, and a black notebook. The background shows green foliage and a building, suggesting a park or office courtyard setting. The text is overlaid on the image, with "MUNCA" in orange and the rest in white.
